EXPLANATORY NOTES

1. The Street Trading Act (NI) 2001 came into force on 1st October 2001. It requires all traders to have a licence regardless of their method of trading. Therefore, whether a trader operates from a stationary position, or from a mobile stall or vehicle or as a temporary trader, they will need to hold a licence.
2. A licence will be required to trade in the supply or offer of supply of a service as well as in the sale or supply of goods.
3. A licence is issued to an applicant. In the case of a business please provide details of the person who will be holding the licence.
4. A stationary trader is regarded as a trader who trades on a regular basis (e.g. daily, or several times per week) from a stationary position in a street. Stationary licences can only be granted for streets or locations included within the Designating Resolution.
5. A mobile trader is regarded as a trader who trades from a moveable stall or vehicle, and who, during the course of that trading moves from place to place. A mobile trader who remains at the same location for longer than is reasonably necessary to deal with those customers frequenting their stall or vehicle will no longer be regarded as a mobile trader and may be considered to be a stationary trader.
6. A temporary trader is regarded as a trader who trades at a one-off event, e.g. festival, fair, etc. A temporary trading licence will be of short duration not exceeding 7 days. Not more than 5 temporary licences can be issued to one applicant in any period of 12 months.
7. A licence to trade as a stationary trader can only be granted for a street or part of a street that has been designated for street trading by Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council. The following streets* have been designated by Council for the purposes of trading as a stationary trader.

8. Under the above legislation any person carrying out street trading activities without a valid licence or in breach of licence conditions shall be guilty of an offence and this will result in formal action being taken by Council.

Any person guilty of an offence shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £1,000.

Substantiated trading offences may also affect an applicant's ability to obtain a street trading licence.

9. Where a licence is granted to trade as a stationary/temporary trader, the Council may attach conditions limiting the overall size of the trading pitch to be taken up under the licence.

10. When applying for a licence to trade as a mobile trader the applicant should be as specific as possible with regard to the areas and locations at which they intend to trade.

11. A mobile/stationary street trading licence granted or renewed by Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council shall remain in force, unless otherwise revoked or surrendered, for a period of 1 year from the grant of the licence or in the case of a renewed licence for a period of 1 year from the date on which the licence became due for renewal.

15. Current licence fees as determined by Causeway Coast and Glens Borough Council are as follows:
